W: Good morning, my dear students. Today for our lecture, we are glad to have Ms. Laura Davis with us, a well-known writer. She's going to share with us her interesting experiences. Now, Laura, please tell us how you find so many interesting things for your stories.

M: Okay, I watch people a lot. I do that when I travel. I've been to many countries such as China, Britain and Italy. So I spend a lot of time at airports. While waiting for my flights, I watch people passing by and start my imagination. For example, the other day when I was waiting for my flight for Britain, I saw a couple. They were buying magazines. They were not wearing business clothes but the man was carrying a suitcase.

Every few seconds the woman looked around. I wondered if someone was following them. Perhaps they were running away and, you know this reminded me of a story in the newspaper that day. A bank clerk stole 1,000,000 pounds a week before and disappeared with his wife. There was a picture of them in the paper. The couple really looked like the thieves. Maybe I should stop them. Just then I saw them say goodbye to each other and the woman walked away. Well sometimes I make mistakes like that but I find things like that very useful for my writing.

Running, like other forms of exercise, helps the body in important ways. Whether the goal is to win a race or just to make it to the finish line of a 10-kilometer run, every runner should follow some basic rules for good health.

First, a runner should do some light activities before exercising to protect him from being hurt. For example, walking is a good way to warm up. Then a runner can do exercises easily. In addition to warm-ups, a pair of running shoes can properly support the feet. They also help protect a runner from being hurt. Third, proper plans can help runners to benefit from exercise. A good training plan should improve performance without causing tiredness. For more experienced runners, a weekly plan can include easy and difficult exercises as well as days off. A new runner should start slowly and then work up to faster speed and longer distance. Finally, it is best to stop running at the first sign of getting hurt. If you continue to run, you will be hurt more seriously.
